

Miraggio Thermal Spa Resort nears completion

GREECE: The finishing touches are being made to the Myrthia Thermal Spa, set to open in late May at the Miraggio Thermal Spa Resort, Halkidiki.

Designed by Athens-based DLP Architects with consultancy from Neil Howard Consulting, the €3m (£2.36m) spa will cover 3,000sqm and feature seven treatment rooms. Other facilities include a large thalassotherapy pool and a thermal wellness suite equipped with a steamroom, a Finnish sauna, a herbal sauna, a tepidarium and a cold plunge walking path (pictured above).

The spa, which will offer the benefits of locally-sourced thermal waters, has a design that reflects contemporary style blended with natural elements of wood and marble.

Product houses Valmont, Algoane and KOS Organic Skincare have been chosen for treatments, while personalised wellness programmes will be created for guests to focus on their specific needs. www.miraggio.gr

Med Garden Spa blooms at Château St Pierre de Serjac

FRANCE: Following an extensive two-year, €25m (£19.7m) renovation at one of the Languedoc's most beautiful wine estates, Château St Pierre de Serjac has reopened with a luxury hotel and Mediterranean garden spa.

The 350sqm 'guilt-free spa', designed by François Thoulouze & Associates, offers chilled rosé from the estate alongside herbal teas and detox juices, as well as four treatment rooms, an Alpine-style indoor/outdoor swimming pool and an aromatherapy hammam. Sole product partner Cinq Mômes also consulted on the spa's creation.

An adjacent Mediterranean garden, fragrant with flowers and herbs, is dotted with cocooning double loungers, with fleecy blankets and hot water bottles provided in the winter.

"A spa felt like an obvious extension to the estate and an opportunity to ensure that our guests can recharge and relax all year round," said owner Karl O'Hanlon.
